Tadao Ando

Since Ando's work is minimalist yet abstract, it would be interesting to experiment with less traditional navigation. Maybe pathways and links to different pages are floating around a homepage, something like that. I think multiple pages still make sense as it can start to build multiple "environments" that may respond to his work in interesting ways.

Home Page/Introduction

This would be a very minimalist opening.

Early Life

His biography.

Style

Point out his unique contributions to the field or architecture.

Buildings and Works

Talk more about specific projects and awards
